Headlines

Dear Parents/Carers

Thank you to those who were able to attend our Christmas Fayre last Friday. The event was a huge success, with so many stalls designed and arranged by the students; varying from glitter tattoos, who can eat a donut the quickest, picking up boxes with a robot made by students to having your nails painted (I had to decline this one!). The event raised over £3000 for the PTA. We are extremely grateful for the time and effort that the PTA put into organising this event.

This week, we say goodbye to Ms Hobbs, who is going on maternity leave. Our best wishes go to Ms Hobbs and her family at this exciting time. We welcome Mr Pickering, an experienced teacher of English, who will be taking over Ms Hobbs teaching.

Earlier this week we were contacted by a member of public. They informed us that two of our Year 9 students, Bella and Chloe, witnessed a boy being knocked off his bicycle. Both of the girls then administered basic first aid and stayed with the boy until the ambulance arrived. We are so proud of both Bella and Chloe, who were obviously shaken by the incident, but managed to compose themselves and support the boy.

Year 11 and 13 students have now started their mock examinations. We wish them all well and hope that the time and effort they have put into revising pays dividends.

I would like to say thank you to all of the music staff and students who were involved in the recent music concert. The evening was a great success, with many students performing for the first time. The breadth of styles and number of different ensembles made for a very enjoyable evening. The school carol service will be held at St. Marys Church, Ware on Wednesday 19th December at 6pm and it would be lovely for the students if the church was full.

Finally, a reminder that the school is closed on Friday 7th December.

Kind regards
Matt Warren, Headteacher

Football

A great afternoon at the 6 a-side U13 EFL football tournament in Stevenage! The A team won 5/6 of their group games and therefore secured a place in the semi-final. They unfortunately lost the semi-final so came a fantastic 3rd place overall! Player of the tournament was Evie Martin.

The B team had a tough pool and ended up 8th but despite this remained positive and in great spirits all afternoon! So proud of their resilience, well done girls!! Player of the tournament was Eva Cullen.

Thank you also to Chloe Hudson in Year 13 who has been running football club and coached the girls during the tournament.

Netball

Some fabulous netball on the 19th albeit very short games due to the poor weather. The Year 9A team beat Goffs 16-2 and the Year 11 team won 10-6! Ria Cabbani and Lauren Turner were star players! Well done girls.

Well done to the Year 9A netball team who recently won 38-2 against Robert Barclay. Great game girls and you always play so well together in whatever position. Star player was Kirsten Gee.

Congratulations to our year 10 netball team who won 38-1 in their league game against Robert Barclay Academy. Star player was Iona Dixon. 3/3 league games won. The team also won their county cup game v Queenswood this week 30-18. Well done.

PE Students of the Month – November

Year 7 - Ruby Walsh

For always being polite and enthusiastic in all PE lessons

Year 8 - Amelia Kaufman-Cook

For a massive improvement in netball and always being so committed

Year 9 - Maddie Stewart

For being the top goal scorer in the U14 Hockey team!

Year 10 - Arianne Constance

For fantastic commitment and effort in the Interhouse Basketball Tournament

Year 11 - Maggie Wyper

For swimming in all the Senior races at the School Swimming Gala

Sixth Form - Harvey Aylott

For always being so enthusiastic in Sixth Form Games

Gymnastics

This weekend, Holly Martin (right) in Year 8 competed in the British Gymnastics Eastern Counties Level 4 Tumble and Trampette competition and she got a silver medal in Tumble! Well done Holly, this is fantastic.

Also over the weekend, Hannah Cavanagh in Year 10 competed at the British Gymnastics Eastern Regional Competition in Ipswich at Level 3 and won Golds in both Trampette and Tumbling! Congratulations Hannah, this is awesome.

National Schools Equestrian Association

Presdales has joined the National Schools Equestrian Association. The competition on Sunday 18th November took place at Keysoe Equestrian Centre near Bedford.

The first competition was a jumping class involving 4 members of a team from Presdales competing against 8 other schools and 10 individuals. The team consisted of Connie Harrington, D'arcy Wright, Drew Cummins and Freya Naylor Stewart. They and their ponies jumped a round of cross country and show jumps at a height of 80cm. The best 3 scores count in the team and they came a very respectable 6th for their first foray into this type of competition.

The next class that Presdales took part in was a pure show jumping class and the height of the jumps were 90cm. In this competition, the team that comes 1st or 2nd automatically qualifies for the prestigious Royal Windsor Horse Show in May next year. The Presdales team consisted of Ruby Barrs, Connie Harrington and Freya Naylor Stewart and unfortunately no 4th member. Again, the best three scores counted and the girls came an amazing 3rd out of 11, all the other teams having 4 members. They were probably one of the youngest teams there and only having 3 in the team made their placing all the more poignant!

What a brilliant first competition for Presdales Equestrian Team. Well done!

Hockey

Well done to our U14 county cup team who beat Royal Masonic School 2-0 last week. Freezing cold conditions. Star player was Maddie Stewart scoring both goals!

Years 9, 10 and 12 French Exchange

Friday the 9th of November was a very exciting yet nerve-wracking day for a lot of people - we would finally be going to spend six days with a host family in another country after having very little contact with them. Saying this however, we had nothing to be worried about as we were welcomed like old friends later that day.

Upon our arrival at 'College Gaston Serpette' we were greeted by the French students before being introduced to our partners. Very kindly, many of the families had baked cakes and we got a chance to bond with our partners over the goods.

I was very relieved to arrive at the 'Roche family' house because, after a long day, I was just ready to sleep. Christophe and Coralie (the parents of Pénélope, my French exchange partner) were extremely kind and welcoming and even the cat seemed happy to have me in their home! That evening we enjoyed a lovely dinner and some board games with the older brother and younger sister. The family really appreciated the gifts that I brought, especially the younger sister who has since said that shortbread is her favourite thing in the world!

We went straight into having a weekend with our host family and this provided an opportunity to really get to know them as well as have a great time. It was board games and the local 'Nantes market' on Saturday and a visit to the beautiful 'Mont– Saint-Michel' on Sunday.

Monday morning required an early start as we had to go to school with our partners. I sat through art and maths with Pénélope and actually managed to understand quite a lot of what was going on. I have to say that it was very different to be back in a class with boys after the two years since leaving primary school! Speaking of primary school, that's where we went in the afternoon. We filled out questionnaires with the children, who were all very excited to see us, before doing a presentation (in French) on Presdales School.

On Tuesday, we visited a very interesting town called Vannes, an hour and forty minute coach ride away. After having a tour round, we were given free time. During this period, we all enjoyed picnic lunches made by our host families. It was in Vannes that I bought presents for my family back in England. I really enjoyed Vannes as it was a very pretty place with lots of quirky little details and we were given a chance to put our French to the test by talking to shopkeepers, etc., without the worry of getting anything wrong, as we knew that we weren't going to see these people again. Also, they were very understanding.

Wednesday was, unfortunately, our last full day. My family gave me hot chocolate in a bowl (a very new experience!) and a huge selection of croissants, pain au chocolat and other pastries as they knew that there was a long day ahead! We got the tram into the centre of Nantes quite early in the morning so that we would be able to fit everything in. First of all, we had a guided tour round the château. The weather did not let us down, the beautiful skies were as blue as anything and it was very warm (considering that it was November). Then we went to the main shopping area in Nantes - there were lots of boutiques and individual shops in addition to some of the more well-known shops. The real highlight of the day would have to be visiting the huge mechanical elephant and carousel! To begin, we went into a museum which explained how the two were made and gave information about future projects that are being planned. I found it extremely interesting as the huge amount of time and effort put into the attractions was something to behold in itself. The ride on the actual elephant was slow but allowed you to take in local scenery and appreciate the work gone into it.

The day ended with a reception with the mayor of Nantes and we met up with our partners and families. It was very lovely and the trip ended on a high.

Then came the dreaded goodbye on Thursday morning ... we were all very emotional to leave our 'homes' which we had been so happily welcomed into. Many tears were shed as the time came to say goodbye to our partners. The bond that we made with them was so strong - they had been like our brothers and sisters for the past week and leaving just felt wrong. Surely it was too soon for us to leave? However, we knew that it wouldn't be long before the return visit and modern technology means that we can keep in touch very easily!

I'm so glad that I took the opportunity and went on this trip and would definitely recommend it. Your French will improve without you even realising and you'll pick up new vocabulary just from overhearing dinner time conversation. The bonds and friendships that I made on the trip are ones that will last forever.

Mon échange scolaire:

On the 9th of November Presdales and Richard Hale set off for France for the infamous French Exchange. Being the only Year 10 going, I was a little apprehensive at first but there was no need for me to be! My fellow Presdalians were absolutely lovely and, although it was a little awkward at first, I soon found myself chatting with them. Not only this but the teachers accompanying us, Miss Haywood and Miss Lee, were so sweet and kept us laughing and smiling the whole week.

Arriving at Gaston Serpette (the French school), I was so, so, SO nervous but also really excited to meet my exchange partner. I had previously texted her a bit so I knew what she looked like and a few things about her but I was still anxious that maybe we wouldn't get along.

I couldn't have been more wrong. We were well-matched, and I knew as soon as I said my first "Salut!", I was really going to like her.

Unusually, this year, we went on a Friday which meant we were immediately spending the weekend with our host families which meant that there would be no teachers there to help translate! My correspondent's parents were so welcoming, and I instantly felt safe and at home and I soon befriended her cat. My family made no fuss that I was vegetarian and cooked some delicious meals, making sure that I never went hungry - there was always a goûter (snack) ready and waiting for me!

At the start of the week, there were often challenging points where I would try to ask or describe something to my exchange partner and couldn't quite get there. Despite the language barrier, we were always able to get across what we wanted to say, even if it involved an odd jumble of French and English. By the end of the week I was better at saying these phrases and found myself feeling more confident to say them in the first place.

It was really cool to experience a completely different culture, and even better to be doing so in such a beautiful city! Leaving Nantes, I was so happy I had met such kind people and so upset that I would not see my correspondent for several months - there were many tears at the airport! I wish I could have stayed for longer.

To any younger students thinking about whether to go or not, I would 100% recommend you give it go, and I'm not just saying that because I know Miss Haywood will read this! It will boost your French speaking and listening and prepare you for those GCSEs with extra vocab you wouldn't know otherwise. You also get to spend a whole week off school with your mates, and get to meet new people, both French and English, with whom you may well become really good friends.

Going on the exchange gave me so much more confidence with my French and really inspired me to keep going. Not only that but I made a genuinely amazing friend who made my week so enjoyable.

Rebecca Kennard (Year 10)

My French Exchange Experience

I went into the French exchange feeling nervous but mostly excited about meeting my partner and diving into the French lifestyle. Since I had done the exchange before in year 9, I half knew what I was expecting; however, unlike the last time, I was constantly speaking French and by the end of the week I was really getting used to the family's lifestyle and the French culture.

My partner is called Lou and early on into the exchange we were already really good friends! We're looking forward to seeing each other again when she comes back to England! We did lots of fun activities whilst we were there. With the school, we went to the Machines de l'Île (where there's a giant mechanical elephant) and also we visited the Château de Nantes, which was really impressive. On Monday and Tuesday I went to the French school and it was really interesting to find out what school in France is like because it was so different from England.

For me the best part about the trip was getting to meet my exchange partner because I have made a really good friend who can also help me improve my French. The most challenging part of the trip was at the start. I was finding it hard to understand the fast and complicated French that the family and my partner were speaking, but by the end of the week I could pick up most of what they said to me. I would definitely recommend this trip to anyone taking French, not only because it improves your listening and speaking skills, but it also allows you to make lots of friends and it is altogether a lot of fun!

Russian Sixth Form Conference

School and were afforded the opportunity to hear talks from Oxford university lecturers. As pupils from Year 13, we were thrilled to see that the first talk was about Gorbachev's ideals and how they led to end of the Soviet Union - something which forms a key element of our course this year. We were particularly interested to find out that Professor Allison, who led the talk, had actually met with Gorbachev on many different occasions and even attended one of Putin's Press Conference at his Dacha (untranslatable word: Russian summer house).

The second session was led by Professor Curtis on Bulgakov's 'Master and Margarita', a celebrated novel across the world. She explained how different translated versions of the novel impacted Bulgakov's original meaning, which made us think carefully about our own translations. After a delicious Russian lunch, hosted by OHS, we heard Professor Bullock talk on Tchaikovsky's opera the 'Queen of Spades'. As we are studying Pushkin's novel of the same name this year, it was interesting to see how history and society had influenced Tchaikovsky's opera version of the story.

After that we were privileged to meet Mr Chesnokovy, a representative from the Russian Culture Centre, who explained the importance of studying Russian and the opportunities available post university. The conference ended with a talk on 'untranslatable words', by Ms. Solovyova, who taught us many unique words that do not comprehensively translate into English due to cultural differences.

We found this conference extremely useful and pertinent to our A Level course, as well as broadening our thoughts on all things Russian. We are looking forward to the next opportunity to hear Professor Bullock speak on Pushkin's Queen of Spades in January.

News from the Geography department

This term, Year 8 have been studying ecosystems with a particular focus on the Amazon rainforest. They listened to rainforest sounds and looked at images of some of the amazing species of plants and animals that live in the Amazon rainforest. Their task was to then write a poem about why the Amazon rainforest is special and worth saving. Ellie Rushforth wrote this poem and the Geography department think it's so good, they want to share it with you.

From the archives

Presdales School, previously Ware Grammar School for Girls, has a rich history. We are fortunate enough to still have a number of items in our archives which make for an interesting read. As part of an occasional dip into the archives, this is a reproduction of a poem written by Olive Reed, one of our first Head Girls.

If you have anything you think we might be interested in having for the archive please contact Mrs Newbold.

The Ware Grammar School

At the Ware Grammar School you will see
Girls to the number seventy-three,
Who have numerous lessons to cram,
And they afterwards pass their exam:
The reason of this is quite enough,
When you know the Principal's Miss Brough

And the staff all work till nearly dark,
To get the girls right up to the mark.
Miss Seaton superintends the art,
And could not have had a better part.
Mr Govier's very clever
Searching music is his endeavour.

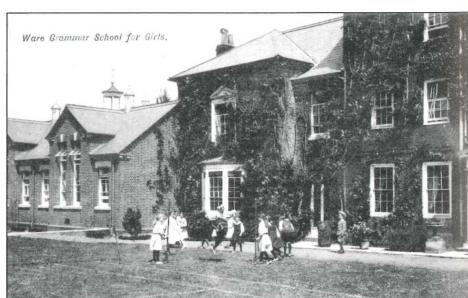

But they also have games of all sorts,
With twirl ball, netball and tennis courts:
A lovely garden for strong and weak,
And many places for hide and seek.
A covered playground; not used if dry,
But when it rains, to it they all fly.

A nice library, use at leisure,
This gives the girls very great pleasure;
For they take the books they like the best.
And leave those remaining for the rest!
They may have reference and fiction,
And they take them without restriction.

Every Monday's welcomed with delight,
For to the Drill Hall they all take their flight.
Where the gymnastics are done very well,
Under the direction of Miss Brettell.
And you should see how each girl runs and springs
When she is in her gymnasium things.

It was once the home of a Miss Tite,
Where she lived when she was quite a mite,
And she was married so did not stay,
But came to visit Miss Brough one day,
And since then, to everyone's great glee
She sent some books for the Library.

The house was habited by John Scott,
This increased its history by a lot.
He built the grotto very near by,
Which is very pleasant to the eye.
And this Grammar School for Girls at Ware,
With no other will compare.

Written by Olive Reed in 1907
Olive went on to be Head Girl the following year.
